ABOUT CHFI

Experts in computer forensics are often found in the criminal justice system. They operate in a variety of private industries, including financial services, information technology, computing, network security, defense, and many more. Professionals from Nettech India in the industry have aided in the capture of those involved in the illicit pornography trade. They've aided in the conviction of serial murderers. They've tracked down terrorists, identified missing persons, and discovered workers who were stealing millions of dollars from their employers. At Nettech India institute we believe in high-quality training.
